About Gevrey Chambertin

Gevrey Chambertin is the largest commune of the Cote de Nuits that boasts nine of the 24 Cote de Nuits Grands Crus. This large Grand Cru comprises of some 87 hectares and produces an average of 2,600 hectolitres of wines.

The Grand Crus consist of the rich, firm and masculine Chambertin and Chambertin”Clos de Beze, as compared to the much subtle, pure and intense Ruchottes and Mazi.

The Chapelle and Griotte (the smallest plot of these Grand Crus),are showing more red fruits and silky textures whereas the Charmes and Mazoyeres are softer and more feminine and the Latricieres coarser and more spicy.

Gevrey Chambertin is a full and sturdy wine with a touch of fleshiness and exoticness to its nuances. Generally, it is a wine that is more flamboyant and sensual than the Vosne Romanee and Nuits St Georges, but more substantial than Chambolle Musigny.

Dugat-Py

This domaine, helmed by Bernard and his wife, Jocelyne, has been practicing biodynamic viticulture since 2004. The couple work extremely hard in the vineyard, cutting back the yields, allowing the vines to extract more from soil.

Interestingly, there is no cold maceration and between 20% to 100% of the stems are retained. Dugat-Py wines are so concentrated that it is a truly mistake to drink their wines in its youth.

Harmand-Geoffroy

Harmand-Geoffroy is a nine hectares domaine that begins making wines in the 19th century. The viticulture approach is strongly focus on biologique, encouraging the vine to produce its own defences to depredatory attack, meaning no weeding, chemical fertilizers but mounding soil and winter ploughing to allow the roots to extract as much from the soil.

The small domaine destemmed 100% and cold soak for 5 days, with a cuvasion for a period of 15-21 days and 25 to 50% new oak is employed during the elevage.

The wines are plump and stylish and sturdy with touch of lush and flamboyant.
